

World in Brief
GNP Disappoints, Other News Is Good

WASHINGTON — The nation's economic growth rate slowed for the second consecutive quarter between July and September as the "real" Gross National Product expanded by 4 per cent, the government said today.

In its preliminary report, the Commerce Department said the total dollar value of the nation's output of goods and services grew at the slowest annual rate since the fourth quarter of last year when the economy expanded by only 3.3 per cent.

The modest third quarter figure of 4 per cent was substantially less than the administration had hoped. The GNP grew at rates of 4.5 per cent in the second quarter and 9.2 per cent rate in the first quarter.

Despite the disappointing growth in the GNP, the department had some good news on the inflation front. The cost of living, as measured by GNP indicators, declined from 5.2 per cent in the second quarter to 4.4 per cent in the third.

Inoculation Tempo Is on the Increase

ATLANTA—The $135 swine flu inoculation program, which was side-tracked temporarily last week by the deaths of about 35 elderly persons, has been resumed. And after the turnout across the country Monday, health officials feel the recipients are no longer afraid of the safety of the shots.

Officials at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, who last week stressed the immunization program is safe, said it would be midweek before it is known how badly the nationwide inoculation effort had been hurt. They said the persons who died had histories of heart disease or other chronic illnesses.

AMAZED—When Paul Grossman underwent a sex operation and became Paula Grossman the Bernards Township, N.J. Board of Education fired her, saying that allowing her to teach posed a threat to the psychological well-being of her students.

Monday the Supreme Court, in its first encounter with a claim of sex discrimination by a transsexual, let stand lower court decisions, which upheld the right of the board to fire her. Mrs. Grossman said she was "amazed" at the decision, and added that "it is wrong to persecute us" for what she said is a legitimate medical problem.

N. Korean Diplomats Get the Nordic Boot

OSLO, Norway — North Korean diplomats, accused of trafficking illegally in liquor, cigarettes and drugs, Monday were expelled from both Denmark and Norway. The orders included the ambassadors to both countries. In the Nordic countries, alcohol is extremely expensive.

North Korea has denied the charges and both Norway and Denmark emphasized they hope the expulsions will not endanger their relationship with North Korea.

Health Dept. Calls Albany Ave. Facility Deficient
Nursing Home Ordered Closed

By ROB BORSELLINO
Freeman Staff

ALBANY—Citing "uncorrectable" structural deficiencies, the New York State Health Department has ordered the closing of the Albany Ave. Nursing Home, a 33 bed facility at 166 Albany Ave.

In addition, the state has fined the home a total of $4,000 for deficiencies involving fire safety, sanitation, administrative services, billing practices, physical therapy and dental services.

The charges, initially filed in January 1975, mostly involved allegations that the home was unsafe because, contrary to current state standards, it is built of wood. It has also been charged that patients are housed on the upper floor of the two story dwelling, a violation of the State Hospital Code and the National Life and Safety Code.

According to state health officials, the closing will take effect November 30, with removal of patients from the second floor to take place no later than October 31.

Charlotte Shuler, administrator of the home, offered no comment on the closing.

Earlier this year the Hutton Nursing Home on Washington Ave. agreed to pay a $3,000 fine following a state hearing into alleged operational deficiencies. Hutton spokesman James Scuderi refused to discuss whether or not the deficiencies have been corrected, however, a state health official said that it is assumed that they were. In addition to the local closing, the state also announced the closing of the Louis S. Poskanzer Convalescent Home in Albany. A fine of $8,000 was assessed against Stanley and Edna Poskanzer for alleged deficiencies at the 26 bed facility they operate.

Aaron Maged, operator of the former Garden Nursing Home in Brooklyn, was fined $22,000 for "numerous violations" which threatened the health and safety of patients during April 1975 when the 300 bed facility was in the process of closing.

Fines of $1,000 each were levied against three other health care facilities:

Citizen's Group Will Be Appointed

Committee to Probe Riot In "Broadest Sense"

By SID LEAVITT
Freeman Staff

NEW PALTZ — Village, town and college officials will appoint a special citizens committee to investigate Saturday's downtown fracas between police, students and visitors, the largest disturbance in the small college town's recent history.

The investigation will go beneath the disturbance to probe "the college-community relationship in its broadest sense," Village Mayor John G. Vett said today.

Committee appointments, probably totaling six to nine citizens, are expected to be made next week.

Vett, Town Supervisor William A. Yeaple and State University College President Stanley K. Coffman Jr. announced plans for the special investigative committee at a joint board meeting and news conference called Monday night to "clear the air" of questions lingering after the melee.

The incident erupted on Main Street shortly before 2 a.m. Saturday when a police car was driving to a bar fight and a bystander complained that the cruiser had run over his foot, Police Chief Charles Bogdanowicz said.

At its height, the disturbance involved an estimated 1,000 students and visitors and more than 70 policemen, including officers from six other towns. Eight persons, including three students, were arrested.

In their statement, the three officials cited a police belief that the disturbance was started and compounded by "people from outside the community who visit New Paltz on weekends."

The Student Government Association the previous day had issued a statement charging police with "losing control" on the heavily crowded street and "taking it upon themselves to smash heads."

An estimated seven to 20 persons were injured as the crowd and police officers scuffled in a hail of beer bottles thrown by other onlookers, but none of the injuries was serious, officials said.

The man who complained of his foot being run over was never identified, and it was a second bystander, John A. Grande of Westwood, N.J., who was first arrested.

Grande initially was identified as a student, but that was later changed to visitor.

Vett said he "isn't particularly interested" in having the police investigated. The real problem shown by the incident is that of a crowded downtown street where there are 13 bars within the length of two blocks, the mayor said.

It isn't unusual to have "several thousand" out-of-town visitors jamming into that area on a weekend, Vett said, and this more general problem "could well be" a subject for study by the citizens committee.

At a press conference following Monday night's statement, Chief Bogdanowicz defended the use of the "chukka" stick (a two-section nightstick joined by a chain) as authorized equipment.

Vett said department members have had "extensive" training in use of the sticks and are taught to rely on the chained sticks as restrictive devices rather than weapons.

The SGA charged the officers with striking bystanders indiscriminately with the sticks and with "contriving" to precipitate the disturbance.

The statement of Vett, Yeaple and Coffman commended the SGA for its efforts among students to prevent a recurrence.

China Policy Change Seen

WASHINGTON(UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has made explicit what was formerly only implied. The result is what U.S. diplomats describe as a significant development in U.S. policy toward China.

In a little-noticed statement at a Harvard news conference last Friday, Kissinger said publicly for the first time: "We believe that the territorial integrity and sovereignty of China is very important to the world equilibrium, and we would consider it a grave matter if this were threatened by an outside power ... it would not be taken lightly if there were a massive assault on China."

Although Kissinger did not mention the Soviet Union, that is obviously the principal threat to China's territory and no other country is in a position to stage a "massive assault" on China.

U.S. officials said it has always been assumed that a Soviet attack on China would be seen as a serious threat to the peace by the United States, and this has been one of the deterrents to such an attack. Now that deterrence is made specific, in effect committing the United States to oppose such an attack.

Kissinger did not say what form the U.S. opposition would take.

He also raised the possibility, in that same answer on Friday, that the United States would consider selling arms to the Chinese. Asked if the United States would provide "any kind of defense equipment to China" Kissinger left open the possibility:

"We have never had any request for the sale of arms to China. We have never had any discussions with China about the sale of arms."

The statement about U.S. policy on China was unexpected by State Department officials. But, it has been learned, it was a deliberate low-key statement of U.S. intentions, which go considerably beyond the 1972 Shanghai Communiqué's words concerning "normalization of relations."

Kissinger plays China policy close to his vest and only a few close associates are informed of his discussions with Chinese officials. Two U.S. officials said that the Kissinger statement caused "pandemonium" when it was first received at the State Department.

But these officials said it was not occasioned by any intelligence that the Soviets were planning an attack.

U.S. intelligence reports indicate that the Soviets have slightly more than 1 million troops, including at least two divisions equipped with tactical nuclear weapons, on the Chinese border.

The officials also said they think the critical period in the Chinese political struggle has passed, and Premier Hua Kuofeng appears to have emerged as the clear victor in his struggle against Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, and the so-called radical group.

However, when Kissinger made his statement on Friday, the issue was still in the balance and there was the possibility that the turmoil would spread, tempting the Soviets to take advantage of the situation.

1700 UC Residents Get Their Flu Shots

KINGSTON—Close to 1700 Ulster County residents received their swine flu shots yesterday when the first local clinic opened at the New York State Armory on Manor Ave., Kingston.

"I feel we did very well for the first day," said Ulster County Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew Dutto. "We would have done better had it not been for the unfavorable publicity, the cold weather and the fact that it was a work day."

Dutto noted that persons 3 to 18 years old are not being vaccinated at this time unless they are suffering from chronic illness. Persons in that age bracket will receive their shots at a later date.

Today the shots will be given at the Centerville Fire Hall, Rte. 212, Centerville, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.; the Legion Building, Bruyn Turnpike, Walkkill, 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and the TOM Vac Building, Rte. 9W, Marlboro, 2:30 to 7 p.m.

Crowd gathers to register for flu shots at the Kingston clinic.

Saugerties, Union at Contract Impasse

SAUGERTIES — An impasse has been reached in contract negotiations between the Saugerties Village Board and Teamsters Union representatives of the village police department.

Mayor James Gage told the village board Monday night that both parties have notified the Public Employees Relations Board of a breakdown in discussions.

With no meeting of the minds on money matters possible, the board's finance committee and the bargaining unit for the police now await the appointment of a PERB fact finder, who must submit a report before another attempt is made to settle salary and other money matters for the coming year.

The Board also heard a request for a cost of living wage increase from five spokesmen for the village's department of public works.

"Things are getting bad, we've been patient, and we know what the money situation is here," they said. "But we need something half way decent in the way of a wage increase. What have you got left these days when you take home $110 or $115 a week?"

Noting that they "thought they had a raise at the beginning of the year, but that something went wrong with that," they asked for an across-the-board cost of living increase, based on the current index of 5.6 per cent.

Trustee John Carnright explained that the contingency fund, from which their raise "might have come" this year "is wiped out."

Gage promised, however, that he and his finance committee would meet with highway department representatives on the matter. Carnright was not so sure that would resolve anything.

"We don't know if we have money in the budget or surplus to give these guys a raise," he said. "If we recommend raises with the highway people, we'll be in a bad position with PERB on the police thing."

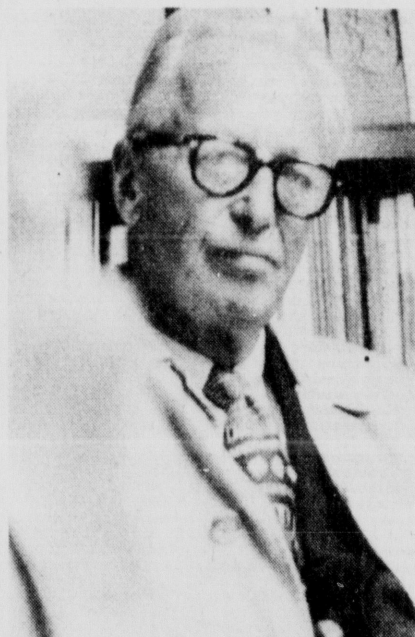

The highway spokesmen were conciliatory. "We'd be satisfied with a cost of living raise," they said. "We're not trying to be obstinate. But it's kind of hard to live on $8,800 a year for a 40 hour week with the cost of food and fuel oil up all the time."

In a move to eliminate a parking problem in the village, the board adopted an amendment to its municipal parking lot ordinance. Under the present ordinance, a portion of the driveway of the Partition Street lot was being used for the parking of vehicles. The amendment is aimed at eliminating parking in the driveway by signs clearly indicating hours and a foot-age setback. The board felt the move would end parking in "precarious spots" and help avoid a traffic blockage from drivers backing into Partition Street.

The board also went on record as being unanimously in favor of a feasibility study for Mountain View Coach Lines to operate a shuttle service from Saugerties to the Rhinecliff railroad station.

The board will inform the state Department of Transportation that it supports the need for the service. Amtrak now

Gay Prefix Upsets Drivers

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Some residents of Hinds County apparently aren't too happy with the prefix lettering "GAY" on their new 1977 automobile tags.

Hinds County Tax collector Jake Richardson said Monday he received several complaints about the GAY prefix after about 1,000 of the tags were mailed out.

"Not everybody wants a car labeled GAY," he said.

A spokesman for the Motor Vehicle Comptroller's office, which is in charge of tag coding, said "nothing offensive was meant." He said the GAY prefix is a "proper tag entry. No one in this office ever thought of it in another way."

Richardson said his office did not notice the prefix either but would "take them back if the recipients don't want them."

Judge Feels Enough Is Enough

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (UPI) — A state Supreme Court justice believes he did a Long Island feminist and the English language a favor by rejecting her request to change her name from Ellen Donna Cooperman to Ellen Donna Cooperperson.

"The use of the proposed name would demean the women's liberation movement and expose it to ridicule," Justice John Scileppi said in an opinion made public Monday.

In her application, Ms. Cooperman said she was deeply involved in feminism and "the ideal of personal liberation." The application said the name Cooperperson "more properly reflects her sense of human equality than does the surname Cooperman."

Scileppi attacked efforts by some feminists to purge the language of "man" and "woman" as parts of words. "I fail to see how the beneficial goals of the women's liberation movement are advanced one iota by the fetish of some people over the use of these words," he said.

Scileppi asserted to permit the change would have had national repercussions, such as efforts to change the surname "Jackson" to "Jackchild," "Manning to Peopleing," and "Carmen" to "Carpersons."

Their Drinking Went to Pot

LONDON—Queen Elizabeth II's 14th-20th King's Hussars observe ceremonial occasions by quaffing champagne from Napoleon's silver chamber pot, captured by a British regiment during the Peninsular War in the early 1800s.

Fidel Makes It Official Cuba Renounces Skyjack Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba has formally notified the United States it is renouncing the 1973 antihijacking agreement.

Under the agreement, both countries pledged themselves to punish or extradite hijackers of ships and boats. The agreement, coupled with strict airport security measures, cut plane hijackings to one in the last 3½ years.

Formal notification of cancellation was received late Friday, according to State Department spokesman Robert Funseth Monday. Premier Fidel Castro had announced earlier that day he would abrogate the treaty because, he said, the CIA was involved in the recent sabotage of a Cuban airliner near Barbados. Castro said, however, that Cuba will continue to return hijacked planes and passengers to the United States.

Under terms of the agreement, it will still be in effect during a mandatory cancellation period of six months, ending April 15.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called the cancellation "an unfriendly and irresponsible act," and declared that no one in the U.S. government, paid by the government, or acting as an agent for the United States had anything to do with the act of terrorism.

Security Concern In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — John Adamson, wearing dark glasses and nonchalantly puffing on a cigarette, drove up to the courthouse.

Flanked by three sheriff's deputies as he exited from the unmarked yellow car, he was almost within touching distance of spectators as he strolled inside for the start of his trial Monday on charges of murdering reporter Don Bolles.

Only minutes before, 100 prospective jurors walked into the same side entrance, even closer to the spectators and cameramen who filmed them.

The scene was too much for Superior Court Judge Frederic Heineman and the Sheriff's Department, which thinks Adamson and others may be assassination targets because of prominent names that may come up in testimony about the fatal car-bombing of the investigative reporter.

Judge Heineman acted quickly. He ordered the trial transferred immediately from the old county courthouse to the new one across the street, where Adamson can be taken from jail to court through an underground tunnel.

Then he dismissed the 100 prospective jurors out of concern for their security as well, according to county District Attorney Donald Harris.

One hundred other jurors were hustled to Heineman's courtroom, and jury selection began. Five jurors were excused by the end of the day. Jury selection resumes today.

Bolles, 47, a prize-winning reporter for the Arizona Republic, was blown apart June 2 when a bomb ripped through his car at a hotel where, police say, an informant set him up with a phony tip.

He had written often about organized crime, land fraud and questionable acts by politicians.

Adamson, a 32-year-old dog breeder and reported pal of high-powered and highly placed persons, was arrested after Bolles' death June 13. He pleaded innocent.

Heineman, who banned the press from attending jury selection, said, "We're proceeding rapidly. We've finished general questioning and are into individual questioning."

He estimated the selection would take several days. Estimates of the trial length run from one to two months, with the jury to be sequestered.

Gay '90s Nostalgia

LYNNFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Gina Minichiello and Bob Sweetser are an old-fashioned couple and they wanted an old-fashioned wedding.

Sunday they got married in full Gay '90s regalia, with an old-fashioned buggy drawn by two horses taking them to Our Lady of the Assumption Church.

Mr. Sweetser, 20, was resplendent in a white tuxedo with tails and top hat while Mrs. Sweetser, also 20, was dressed in a white gown with a long train.

STAFF'S CHANCE

Fit The Portion to The Diner

Ulster County is blessed with more than its fair share of excellent restaurants.

Saturday night while enjoying dinner at a local eating establishment, we noticed a middleaged man who was obviously relishing every morsel. The man weighed easily 300 pounds.

Across the room sat a young woman, also seemingly enjoying her meal. Soaking wet, it is doubtful she'd have weighed 110.

There were many such incongruous comparisons among the patrons. Yet in every case they were eating the same size dinner portions.

How can a 110 lb. woman be expected to polish off a roast duckling to a clean-plate climax in the same manner of a 300 lb. husky?

What with people crying the blues about the economy and with millions suffering starvation throughout the world, it's nothing short of a crime to send unfinished plates of food back to the kitchen to be discarded as garbage.

And a-la-carte menus aren't the answer either. Many people, especially those who consider themselves connoisseurs, enjoy a seven-course meal offering everything from soup to nuts....often just in smaller amounts.

But there is an answer.

Why don't restaurants offer entrees in proportions: small, average, large — priced accordingly? Proprietors wouldn't lose money; there would be a saving in the amount of food used and, at a cost of $15 for two instead of $20-plus, perhaps MORE people could eat out MORE often. After all, even the corner ice cream store offers its patrons size selections of single, double or triple headers.

Freeman Readers Write

Highway Applicant Has Degree

Dear Editor:

I feel it necessary to answer an article appearing Oct. 9 in The Daily Freeman, as this is not the first time that an article has been released misrepresenting my qualifications presented for the Ulster County Highway Superintendent position.

For the record, I do possess a Bachelor of Science Degree in Civil Engineering from Michigan State University. This was stated in my resume submitted over a year ago to all County legislators. The Freeman has twice erred in stating I have no degree.

The self-assurance of the committee chairman when describing the Highway Department's apparent smooth operation in the last year overlooks many things. A 10 minute inspection in the right place would reveal this:

• Ulster County in the last year has constructed projects showing little attention to the presently recognized safety improvements for to bridge approaches and bridge railings.

• Concrete pylons have been placed on county structures that the state has been removing from existing structures for safety reasons since 1971.

• Exposed guide rail ends have been placed on county projects that have been considered hazardous and outdated on new construction for many years by the N.Y. State Department of Transportation.

• Steel railing of a type placed this year on a county bridge was being removed from N.Y. State bridges as far back as 1971, and replaced with safety railing.

Hinchey: Probe More Deeply

Dear Editor:

I agree wholeheartedly with your editorial of last Friday, "Rome's Burning, Fellows."

As your readers will know, I have always run an issue-oriented campaign and intend to continue to do so this year.

I congratulate the Freeman on pointing out to the public the ugly level to which a political campaign can sometimes descend. In so doing you have performed a service not only for the public but also for the candidates.

Because I believe we both desire the same thing, namely, the betterment of the quality of life here in Ulster County, I hope you will permit me to add a few words on the subject as seen from my perspective.

The Freeman has made enormous strides in recent months in improving its newsgathering operations; I am sure you are pleased with that progress at the same time that you seek further improvement.

The Friday editorial served a good purpose, but I think you will agree that it does not diminish the need for efficient reporters, ferreting out the facts, revealing falsehoods, and probing the dark corners of community life.

A newspaper, by its rigorous, im-

• An exposed wing wall ten feet high exists at the immediate end of a new bridge and only a few feet from the edge of the pavement, with a space in the guide rail directly in front of this wall large enough to drive a car through.

It seems to this writer that sincere thought should be given to incorporating these safety improvements into future design. At this late date failure to take advantage of the knowledge gained through state and federal research relative to highway safety seems ridiculous. The cost of traffic safety in new construction is small at best, but to make future modifications is expensive.

Probably any construction project can be criticized for some points of construction and design. However, it seems inexcusable to find expensive extruded expansion joint materials laying in the stream below that belong at both ends of the bridge. These new expansion joints now act as troughs for dirt, (perhaps due to a newer type joint presently available not being specified.) No attempt was made to discuss important items previously voiced by knowledgeable critics.

The committee chairman's statement of his desire to fill this position with someone without an engineering degree seems presumptuous to this writer in the light of the above findings at one location on Ulster County's 436 miles of highways.

partial scrutiny of the daily life of an area, becomes a powerful force for good. Corruption and distortion find it difficult to thrive under such circumstances.

Unfortunately, there are always some who will test the limits of truth and honesty when they think the sentinel is not keeping vigilant watch.

Those of us in political life know that many good lawmakers have been turned out of office simply because they thought they could ignore false accusations with impunity. They trusted in a public opinion that never became mobilized.

This presents a real dilemma for the conscientious officeholder. And it explains why we sometimes overreact when we are unjustly accused.

We need a good, vigorous press to get all the facts before the public — not only to protect us from the unscrupulous attacks by others but also to curb our own indiscretions.

By all means, keep coming at us so that with those editorials, but even more importantly, dig deep in your political reporting so that the record is set straight on all the candidates.

That way we are all winners.

Ex-Resident Loves Pike Plan

Dear Editor:

Recently, I had the pleasure of returning to Kingston for a vacation.

As a former resident of Ulster County, I would like to extend my appreciation and congratulations to both the merchants and the local officials for their foresight and initiative (to say nothing of the expense incurred) in the restoration and beautification of the uptown shopping area.

The many-hued porticos, the architectural ballustrades, and the total cleanliness of Wall Street and its surrounding area were all heart-warming. Although I'm certain that

Up And Coming in Venezuela

The President of Venezuela is not unlike Hubert Humphrey — enthusiastic, loquacious, warm, with an appetite for life and office unrivaled by the conspicuous leaders of this hemisphere. He is, moreover, — again like Humphrey — a superb salesman. There is to begin with his conviction that he has taken the proper measure of most problems. And apart from that, he communicates with a jaunty lucidity that incorporates the best of the well ordered academic mind, while rejecting any dreary traces of pedantry.

CAP, as they call Carlos Andres Perez, was born to talk to people; to lead. As head of the Accion Democratica, he is President for two and a half years more. Then, under the laws of Venezuela, he must step aside for ten years before running for office again. In ten years he'll be younger than Senator Humphrey is now, and I take the opportunity at this moment in Senator Humphrey's convalescence to predict that twelve and one-half years from now, Humphrey will attend the second inaugural of President CAP.

The achievements of Mr. Perez are, all things considered, quite phenomenal. It isn't every day that the leader of a foreign country nationalizes something on the order of 150 billion dollars worth of oil, paying one billion dollars to the people who discovered that oil and capitalized its development — and leaves them if not exactly smiling, at least not mutinous. President Perez's formula for arriving at a compensatory price was marvelous. He reimbursed the oil companies for the cost of their drilling rates and refineries, taking the position that the oil itself was at no time the property of the oil investors.

It reminds one of the enchanting story by Alexander Woolcott about the French cadet who won the regimental pool and spent a night with Paris's most attractive, well, poule. The next morning she asked how he had come on the five thousand francs necessary to buy her services for the night, and he confessed that his one thousand fellow cadets had organized a lottery, each man contributing five francs, the winner to spend the night with the renowned mademoiselle. Overcome with sentiment, she wept and wept, and recovering herself, walked to her purse and effusively returned to the cadet his five franc investment.

How would Venezuela continue to attract foreign investors for foreign capital, having dealt thus raffishly with the oil (and the steel) people? CAP smiled, and talked about the splendid opportunities in Venezuela for foreign capital, about the convertibility of currency, the repatriation rights of profits, about the rapid institutionalization in Venezuela of a democratic order which is the best guarantee against such convulsive terms as are common in Latin America.

CAP and his planners want everything, as soon as possible. He will tell you that he thinks it altogether possible that oil as fuel will be anachronized by the end of the century, even if oil as a petrochemical will be valuable into the far reaches of history. Under the circumstances, burn the oil, spend the money now, develop a strong capital base; eliminate poverty; raise educational standards.

In doing this he has difficulties. For one thing, Venezuelans do not like to stay out in the farms, preferring the city, never mind the squalor of their lives. For another, generations of what one would emphatically call a pre-Watergate morality make the journey of a federal dollar dispatched to relieve a poor family notoriously hazardous, arriving, typically, only in highly emaciated form. For still another, there is the specter of that political instability which for a while made a mockery of the vaulting rhetoric of the great liberator, Simon Bolivar. One hundred and fifty-five governments in 125 years.

But beginning 15 years ago, it appeared the democratic roots had begun to sink. As so often is the case, Venezuelan democrats overdid it, extending the franchise even to the illiterate. But the hard, revolutionary left has only six per cent of the vote, and — CAP smiles — that isn't enough. Although he is prominent as a leader of the Third World, the President has in his office, beside the great canvas of Simon Bolivar, only two busts. One of them is of Abraham Lincoln, the other of Winston Churchill. He ought to have, besides, the scalp of John D. Rockefeller. But he is too good natured to flaunt his triumphs.

The WASPS Are Restless

ethnic groups, and it might cost them the election.

"Our votes are of crucial importance," another man said. "After all, WASPs make up a large segment of the population, and we have as many dreams and hopes for our children as the blue-collar working class."

"I know the ethnics look down on us," an advertising executive from Greenwich said, "because we read books and go to the theater and play golf and send our children to private schools."

"But where would America be without WASPs? We built this country from an agrarian society to the highest industrialized nation in the world. And we did it with private capital which our great-grandfathers invested in every conceivable project from factories to railroads. One becomes very discouraged when one hears both Mr. Ford and Mr. Carter repeating that we don't pay enough taxes."

"Frederick Campbell the Third is right," a stockbroker from New Canaan said. "WASPs seem to be the butt of all the jokes these days. We're getting fed up with it. We're as good Americans as any ethnic group in this country, and we're not dumb like everyone maintains."

"Why is it," a banker from Oyster Bay asked, "there are no situation comedies about WASPs on television? And when they use a token WASP character in an ethnic show why is he always the person who doesn't seem to know the score?"

"Well," Horace Richardson Junior, an IBM sales manager, chimed in, "the WASP image seems to have deteriorated as the ethnic image has improved."

"In what way?" I asked.

"They say we have the highest divorce rate, the heaviest drinking problems, and the largest tax shelters. We're always being accused of wife swapping because we live in the suburbs."

"These are generalizations that do not take into consideration the majority of hard-working WASPs who are happily married, have only one or two cocktails before dinner and watch the John Adams Chronicles on television."

"Very well put, Waldo," an airlines vice president said. "Every time a white-collar crime is committed, people automatically assume a WASP did it. It's true that a high percentage of WASPs commit white-collar crimes, but that is only because they are in positions of responsibility where the opportunities exist."

As the first reporter ever to visit a WASP bar I came to the following conclusion: WASPs are tired of being ignored by both Ford and Carter, and if neither candidate addresses himself to their problems they may sit out the election in November.

As one TV executive put it, "The Republicans have taken us for granted for too long. Just because we're overachievers doesn't mean we don't have feelings, too."

The IRS Bungles A Trial

WASHINGTON — An alleged "hit man" for the underworld was set free a year ago, we have just learned, because the Internal Revenue Service held back vital information that could have led to a murder conviction.

A key witness brought the information to the IRS, which spent three months processing it. By the time all the red tape had been cleared away, the trial was over. The witness never made it to court.

When we told the prosecutor the details of what had happened, he called the IRS "bunglers" and "bumblers."

The bizarre tale began in July, 1973, in a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., night club. As a rock band drowned out the gunshots, a Cleveland man was lured to a pay phone and murdered gangland-style.

Two years later, New York City police, acting on a tip, arrested Salvatore Ripulone. He was returned to Florida and charged with the murder.

Meanwhile, an IRS intelligence agent named Steven Favis was contacted by a reliable informant. The informant disclosed that Ripulone had confided during a private conversation that he had committed the pay phone murder.

Favis immediately tried to turn this important information over to the Fort Lauderdale authorities. But IRS regulations, which have now been changed, required Favis to get prior approval from IRS headquarters in Washington.

Favis waited three months before the approval was finally granted. But it was too late. Ripulone had been acquitted, and he cannot be retried. Philip Shailer, who prosecuted the case, told us the IRS witness could have tied to a conviction.

We have now retraced the bureaucratic run-around that Favis encountered. He requested permission in an Aug. 12, 1975 memo to arrange for his informant's testimony to be heard at the murder trial. Three weeks later, the request received the routine approval of Favis' superiors in Florida.

The request arrived at the national offices in Washington on September 22. No action was taken until September 22. Then a memo of approval was drafted. Although the memo contained only three short paragraphs, it took another nine days to get it typed.

Then, with the outcome of a murder trial hanging in the balance, the three paragraphs were retyped twice over the next two days.

Two weeks after the final typing, the request was approved by a national branch chief. It was now October 16. Two more IRS officials also approved the memo. Then another IRS man suggested that the memo be reworded again.

It was redrafted. The branch chief gave his second approval on November 6. The other three IRS officials were also satisfied with it. The memo then was handed up to Lester Stein, a special assistant to the chief counsel, for a final clearance.

Say the time it reached Stein's desk, the memo already had been retyped five times. Yet incredibly, Steidisapproved the language, suggested further revision and sent the memo back to the beginning of the line. Then it had to be reapproved all over again.

Stein eventually gave his blessing to the typed memo, and it was forwarded triumphantly to the Florida field offices on November 21. But unfortunately, Ripulone had been acquitted on October 17.

Although it's far too late to matter, here's the statement that Favis' informant would have repeated on the witness stand. He told the IRS, according to intelligence documents, that Ripulone was "a hit man for the organization. He's a sick man."

"He was always trying to impress me by repeating to me the details of murders he had committed. He seemed to thrive on giving me all the details."

The informant repeated the boasts he had heard from Ripulone, including an account about how he had robbed an elderly couple in Florida. "When they wouldn't tell him where they kept their money," related the informant, "he held their hands to a hot stove."

Footnote: Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander has not revised his own earlier orders and has authorized IRS agents to contact local police hereafter with this kind of information.

PRODIGAL PEDAGOGUES: Buried in the vast federal bureaucracy are agencies that routinely escape public attention but spend the taxpayers' millions with all the reckless abandon of the biggest bureaus.

Rep. John Moss, D.-Calif., tries to keep his eye on these unnoticed agencies. He has recently been taking a look the little known National Institute of Education (NIE).

Moss learned that the NIE, an agency of the mammoth Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, is riddled with strife and is wasting much of its $70 million annual budget.

His findings are backed up by the Civil Service Commission, which also gave the NIE the once over. The Commissions report, intended for official eyes only, has been secreted away in government file cabinets for months. But we have obtained a copy and can report these high lights:

— The UIF is afflicted with "unusually and needlessly high payroll costs." Employee morale is poor and there is "no assurance that the work being performed is necessary."

— Hundreds of promotions have been made which are in violation of the law. Over one 18-month period, the NIE had 112 promotions — all of which broke Civil Service regulations. The NIE has also performed poorly in civil rights.

— Overall, the institute is plagued with a lack of organization. "Some employees are overworked, while others have nothing to do."

Footnote: An NIE spokesman acknowledged that genuine problems exist but insisted they have been corrected. Moss, however, disagrees.

Arab Boycott List Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A list of 38 corporations that have complied 59 times with the Arab boycott since President Ford ordered disclosure of such activities is now public.

Two of the nation's largest banking companies—Bank of America and Citicorp's Los Angeles export subsidiary Citibank—were among the 38. They informed Arab nations they were lending money to corporations declining to do business with Israel.

The names were released by the Commerce Department Monday. During the second presidential debate with Jimmy Carter, President Ford promised to disclose the names of all companies that have participated in the boycott.

The department later amended that pledge, however, saying under previous agreements it would be able to release only the names of corporations participating in the boycott after Oct. 7.

Several corporations have violated the antiboycott requirements more than once during the 11 days since the President's announcement, the department said.

These included Common Market Forwarders Inc. of Houston; Trans International Forwarders of New York, and operates seven trains a day from Rhinecliff to New York City, and the board visualized the shuttle service as a first link in mass transportation services in this area, a matter of increasing importance, they felt, in a time when many feel the pinch of high gasoline and transportation costs.

On a motion by trustee Joan Feldmann, village attorney William Brinnier was asked to investigate and report back to the board on a new law allowing communities the opportunity to give tax abatements to new businesses coming into those communities. Feldmann felt that if Saugerties could encourage business and industry to locate in the community by giving them a 50 per cent exemption on property tax for the first year of operation, and a gradual lessening of tax grades over 10 years, the village should adopt such a plan.

In other action, the board also:

•Set Nov. 15 as the date for a public hearing on restricting parking for one hour on the west end of Washington Avenue at the corner of Main Street in a southerly direction for a distance of three or four car lengths. The restriction involved would require an amendment of the traffic ordinance.

•Authorized police to begin enforcing the all night parking ordinance on Oct. 22 by issuing warning tickets the first week and summonses thereafter.

•Approved the appointment of Odell Johnston as village bookkeeper to maintain the financial ledger books and prepare a quarterly report to the board at a fee of $4 an hour, not to exceed $600 a year.

•Agreed to ask zoning enforcement officer Michael Schovel for a status report on of Local Law Number One on "Unsafe Structures," the zoning ordinance and the sign ordinance by the next meeting.

•Set a Halloween curfew in the village for the nights of Oct. 30 and Oct. 31, requiring that all under 14 be off the streets by 9 p.m., and those 14 and under by 10 p.m.

•Extended permission for use of the municipal auditorium to all athletic groups already granted its use until the next meeting of the board, at which time a new set of rules and regulations governing its scheduling and maintenance will be adopted.

•Agreed to meet in executive session this week to discuss the lawsuit being brought against the village by former patrolman Harry Vickery, who had been discharged for conduct unbecoming an officer several years ago.

rence of trouble later Saturday.

The problem of people congregating in a crowded downtown area on weekends "is essentially a community problem," the statement said.

Village Trustee John Logan was the only official Monday night to question the procedures by which the investigative committee will be appointed. Logan felt the matter should be left to elected officials.

Vett expected more discussion of the matter at next Monday night's regular board meeting.

The mayor couldn't recall an incident of similar scope since he moved to town in 1947.

"We hope out of this investigation will come some understanding — and that nothing like this will ever happen again," Vett said.

Funeral For Lonely Old Lady

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—The priest said it was their "Christian duty," so about 300 members of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic parish in this Warren County city came to pay last respects to Dorothy Rockefeller.

Almost no one in the crowd at the church Monday knew the 72-year-old woman, who died Saturday, all alone, in the Eden Park Nursing Home. The funeral director assigned to handle her burial said the only relative he had been able to find — a brother — died two months ago.

The morticians told the Rev. Robert Purcell, it would be a very small, quick funeral.

At masses Sunday, however, Fr. Purcell told his congregation that they should give up an hour of their time,

Snow Hampers Rescue Mission

By UPI

Howling winds and swirling snow have slowed rescue teams combing the snow-clogged Northern Rockies for a mute and nearly blind child and midautumn snow spread over much of the Midwest today.

New snow complicated the search for little Ronnie Rea, who wandered away from his home south of Ten Sleep, Wyo., a week ago wearing only a short-sleeved shirt and pants.

Effel Rea, Ronnie's mother, said he can communicate only with crying or whimpering sounds and is legally blind without thick eyeglasses but remained hopeful he would be found alive.

The storms, which began Sunday, piled 18 inches of snow along the Wyoming-Montana border.

Two hunters separated from their companions when a storm blew in Sunday were found by rescuers Monday.

A mounted rescue party found Gabriel Franko in "perfect condition," wandering farther into the mountains. Franko became separated from two hunting companions Sunday during a snowstorm.

Rescuers on the other side of the Big Horn mountains found John Schaz, 30, who also had been separated from hunting companions on Sunday.

Four inches of snow fell in southwestern Minnesota, and from two to four inches of snow slicked highways in western

New York's snowbelt Chautauqua County Monday.

Nationally Known Speed Reading Course To Be Taught Here In Kingston/Poughkeepsie

KINGSTON/POUGHKEEPSIE (Spec.)—United States Reading Lab will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Kingston Poughkeepsie area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life.

In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster attaining speeds that approach 6000 words per minute. In a rare instance speeds of up to 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour, orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Kingston/Poughkeepsie classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14, (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible).

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming . . . now you can! Just by attending 1 evening per week for just 4 short weeks you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging accelerating world then this course is an absolute necessity.

These special one-hour lectures will be held at the following times and places.

Kingston/Poughkeepsie Meetings

State Thruway. All Poughkeepsie meetings will be held at the Camelot Inn, 679 South Road (Route 9).

If you are a businessman, student, housewife or executive, this course, which took 5 years of intensive research to develop, is a must. You can read 7-10 times faster, comprehend more, concentrate better, and remember longer. Students are offered an additional discount. This course can be taught to industry or civic groups at "Group Rates" upon request. Be sure to attend whichever free orientation that fits best in your schedule.

Two weeks from today it will all be over. The headlong dash for the White House, the debates, polls, apologies, and clarifications will all be left behind as voters claim the spotlight from the speechmakers.

But for now, the campaign continues unabated. President Ford, told by allies the race with Jimmy Carter looks like a photo finish, is readying himself for a 10-day stretch drive, while the former Georgia governor fought Mon-

And with all that, the final debate Friday in colonial Williamsburg, Va., loomed as a large and possibly deciding factor in a race featuring considerable blocs of "undecideds" in nationwide polls.

Ford continued the "Rose Garden" phase of his campaign Monday, signing bills and preparing for the final debate and the subsequent campaign swing. Only one out of town appearance was scheduled for Ford before the debate.

Carter, in Florida Monday, almost dared voters to go to the polls, saying:

"Lots of polls show half of the American people are not

Carter stayed in Florida for more stumping today, then headed later for North Carolina with his ultimate stop at

The Democratic presidential candidate Monday was quick to seize upon the statements of Gen. George Brown, who suggested in an interview, that Israel has become burdensome for the United States.

No reprimand was forthcoming, but the President's spokesmen said he disagreed

Ford met with 19 GOP leaders Monday at the White House for a progress report on the campaign. Several of the officials, including governors and senators, said the race was "neck and neck."

After Friday's debate, Ford takes to the road for about 40 stops in as many as 10 states: California, New York, Pennsylvania, Texas, Illinois, Michigan, Florida, Indiana, Wisconsin and possibly South Carolina.

Republican Bob Dole hit the farm belt again Monday to criticize Carter's agriculture policies and suggest that young voters are turned off by the Georgian because they "don't know where he stands."

The Dole campaign was moving into the Southwest this week and into the Deep South later on.

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — The Consolidated Edison Co. should be denied all but $11.4 million of its requested $249.8 million annual electric rate increase, according to papers filed by the Public Service Commission staff.

Under the staff's proposals, included in testimony filed Monday prior to the start of a hearing on the request, the company would also be allowed to raise its rates next summer by an amount equal to the cost of higher city taxes and wage increases under its labor contract.

Con Edison had projected that an anticipated wage increase would cost $20 million, and the higher taxes and assessments would require $23.3 million in additional revenue.

The commission staff is responsible for presenting testimony at rate hearings representing the consumer point of view. The commission has until May 4 to act on the utility's rate request.

Thirteen staff witnesses coordinated by staff counsel Mark S. Kahan were expected to testify before hearing officers Edward L. Block and John T. Vernieu at the proceeding in New York City. Cross examination of the witnesses was expected to take several days.

The largest single reduction proposed by a staff witness amounted to a $110 million cut due to a proposed lower rate of return on common equity.

Instead of the company's contention that it should be allowed a 15 per cent return, Kevin M. Bronner, a staff financial analyst, proposed a 12.7 per cent return.

In the last rate case, the commission allowed the utility to earn 13.5 per cent on equity or the portion of investment in plant that is owned by shareholders.

Con Edison serves about 2.9 million electric customers in New York City and parts of Westchester County.

N. KOREANS OUSTED

Diplomats Expelled From Denmark, Norway, for Selling Drugs & Cigarettes

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — North Korean diplomats have been expelled from a second Scandinavian country for illegally selling alcohol and cigarettes and are under investigation in a third.

The expulsion orders included the ambassadors to Denmark and Norway.

The Norwegian Foreign Ministry said Monday the five North Korean diplomats in the Oslo embassy must leave the country in six days.

The order followed Denmark's decision Friday to expel four North Korean diplomats accused of trafficking illegally in liquor, cigarettes and drugs.

North Korea has denied the charges in both countries.

In Stockholm, Swedish police have presented a report to the Foreign Ministry concerning the North Korean Embassy there, but the contents of the report were not divulged.

A Norwegian official said the expulsion was ordered because a police report showed the North Korean diplomats were involved "in a very extensive import and trading of liquor and cigarettes." Police said that trade involved 4,000 bottles of liquor and 140,000 cigarettes.

Norway identified the diplomats as the four North Koreans based in Oslo and Ambassador Kil Jae-gyong, who is based in Stockholm but accredited in both Sweden and Norway.

In Copenhagen, Danish authorities said Ambassador Kim Hong Chul and his three-man staff were dealing in alcohol and cigarettes and were ordered out of the country by Thursday.

A Danish police spokesman said 324 pounds of hashish — worth $333,333 on the black market — were transported in an embassy car Oct. 12. Two Syrians and several Danes were arrested in connection with the alleged drug trafficking.

Danish officials said their ambassador to Pyongyang, who is based in Peking, will hold negotiations with North Korean officials on the expulsions.

Both Norway and Denmark emphasized they hope the expulsions will not endanger their relationship with North Korea.

In the Nordic countries, alcohol is extremely expensive.

In Oslo, it is available only through state monopoly shops, which charge a high price to bring in revenue and to discourage drinking. In Denmark, alcohol is available on the open market, where a fifth of Scotch whisky costs $16.

Court Upholds School Board on His-Her Dismissal

Transsexual Stays Fired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Grossman, an elementary school music teacher, was 51 years old and ready to kill himself unless he could fulfill what he now says was a lifelong goal — to become a woman.

In 1971 the goal was achieved. Paul Grossman became Paula Grossman, and in the process lost her teaching job.

Monday, the Supreme Court, in its first encounter with a claim of sex discrimination by a transsexual, let stand lower court decisions, which consistently upheld the right of the Bernards Township, N.J. Board of Education to fire Mrs. Grossman for obtaining a sex change operation.

In a telephone interview Mrs. Grossman said she was "amazed" at the decision, and added that "it is wrong to persecute us" for what she said is a legitimate medical problem.

Mrs. Grossman, who turns 57 Oct. 30, said in her Supreme Court brief that she has wanted to be a woman since she was 5 years old, but had coped with living in a male body until "after 50 she was faced with the choice of being sexually reassigned or death."

Reached at Plainfield, N.J., where she now works for the city's criminal justice office, Mrs. Grossman said it was "very much true" that she would have killed herself had she remained a man. She added that her family and friends have been supportive throughout her unsuccessful five-year battle to regain her teaching job.

"It's a perfectly legitimate medical problem," she said of transsexualism, "and to persecute us for that is dead wrong."

Although she has another job, Mrs. Grossman said she still would like to teach. "Teaching is my field. It's the profession I've followed most of my life."

Election Futures Foretold

ATHENS (UPI) — The horoscope tilts toward Gerald Ford. The pendulum swings to Jimmy Carter. The cards are never very clear on elections but seem to favor Carter.

Greeks who deal in the future agree on one thing: The U.S. presidential election next month will be close.

"It is a very tight race between Ford and Carter," said Fortoula, a popular medium who is consulted by Greek politicians and foreign diplomats in her tiny basement apartment.

"I see some danger involved in the campaigning," she said, holding me by the hand as she spoke rapidly in a low voice. Normally specializing in political development in the Middle East and Europe, Fortoula is devoting much of her time these days to the American scene.

"I suspect Ford is going to win his own place in the White House, but it will be a close thing and I may change my mind before November," she said.

Astrologer Tassia Louta, poring over her celestial charts, admitted to having some slight problem.

"Without knowing the exact moment of their births," she said, "I cannot be 100 per cent sure of being right."

"Ford's horoscope looks stable enough and I think he will scrape in. But the result will be very close and we cannot rule Carter out. If Carter does get in, the world will change radically."

But Touvla Kanavarakou pendulum — a gold ring suspended in a thread from a plastic frame — would not touch the photograph of Ford lying beside one of Carter on the table. It swung gently, then violently toward Carter whom she called a "very good-hearted man, determined and dynamic."

"He will win," she said. "Ford has a difficult face and I see things are dark for him."

Daring Shipboard Robbery

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — A new safe is being installed aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal to replace one in which thieves burned a hole during a daring shipboard robbery that netted $70,000.

The Navy's Atlantic Fleet Air Command said Monday the installation of the safe is a small part of an extensive overhaul for which the Forrestal will be laid up for the next nine months in Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

The spokesman said installing a new strongbox is not customary part of such a major overhaul.

The night before the carrier entered the shipyard on Oct. 1, safecrackers tied up a ship's attendant, burned through the walls of the ship's safe with a torch and escaped with $70,000.

DEAR ABBY

Man in Doubt about Asking Battling Lady Friend to Wed

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a nice, refined woman my age (45) and we planned to be married next month. But an incident occurred last week in the shop where she works that makes me wonder if I should go through with my marriage plans.

Another woman employee and my friend got into an argument when the other woman accused my friend of stealing one of her best customers. The name-calling graduated into hair-pulling, and my friend was getting the best of this other woman when the other woman yanked her dress off her.

Well, my lady friend just wouldn't quit. Minus her dress she tore into the other woman, and before the battle was over, both women stripped each other and were fighting naked when the boss called the police.

My question: Should I marry this woman who fought naked in front of both men and women when she could have quit when just her dress had been torn off?—WONDERING IN N. Y.

DEAR WONDERING: Among other things, your lady friend exhibited a violent temper. I'd have to know more about her before answering your question, but if you place a high premium on modesty, don't rush into anything.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a man who is married and has four children to go out with other women as long as it doesn't interfere with his home life?

I can't receive mail at my place because nothing around here is private, but I need an answer fast.—BURLINGAME

DEAR BURLINGAME: It's NOT all right. Besides, regardless of what you may think, it HAS to interfere with his home life.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in disagreement over something and want you to settle it.

When someone comes to our door asking for me, my husband will invite him (or her) in, and he sends them to whichever room of the house I happen to be in at the moment.

He's sent people to my bedroom when I'm lying down! He has directed them to the basement while I'm putting up pickles. He's even invited them to join me in the kitchen while I'm mopping up the floor!

Some of the people he's invited in I hardly know, such as the Avon lady.

I have asked him to please ask the caller to be seated, then come get me so I can go to THEM, but he never does. He continues to send them to me, which embarrasses me no end.

He is a perfect gentleman otherwise, but now that he's retired and home all day, this habit of his is getting me nervous. We've been married 43 years, and this morning he sent a magazine salesman into my bedroom while I was dressing!

Please help me.—FURIOUS DEAR FURIOUS: You've told your husband what I would have told him. Now it's two to one.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Marianna Christos

Full House Welcomes Award-winning Soprano's Debut in her Hometown

By MARGERY MOSSMAN
Freeman staff

KINGSTON—A packed house at the Community Theater in Kingston last night welcomed the lovely young soprano Marianna Christos to her debut in her hometown. Ms. Christos sang a beautiful selection of songs by old and more recent masters, including some difficult but well-sung arias by Handel and Puccini.

Ms. Christos was accompanied on the piano by Margo Garrett, a young woman whose talent is obvious even as she provides the softest of background music for the singer. Surprisingly, the two ladies have been rehearsing together only since last spring. Ms. Garrett was most enthusiastic about their work together. "I love to play for Marianna," she said, and their true musical communication on the stage last night displayed her feelings.

Marianna Christos has won numerous awards for her singing, including a coveted second prize in the Metropolitan Opera auditions last year. Her Kingston concert consisted of opera pieces that she has and will be singing on her tours with a number of different opera companies across the country. Also included in the program were some favorite songs of Ms. Christos, such as "The Silver Swan" by Rorem and "Summertime" from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

When questioned about her plans for the future, the dark-haired soprano explained that she has so many plans, she wouldn't know where to begin. But just for starters, Ms. Christos will shortly be spending about two months each in Chicago, Boston and Kentucky, singing with resident opera companies in these states. The 27-year-old singer is most excited about her stay with the well-known Boston Opera, directed by Sarah Caldwell.

Ms. Christos, who works easily in five different languages, has recently been practicing the famed part of Musetta in Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," which she will be performing on one of her many tours this year. Because Puccini is currently Ms. Christos' favorite composer, the singer treated her enthusiastic audience last night to a taste of what other audiences will soon be enjoying—an aria from "La Boheme" called "Quando me'n vo," or "Musetta's Waltz."

Unfortunately, Ms. Christos has no plans right now to be singing back in Kingston in the near future. However, when next we do see her, the performance should be even better. At 27, the soprano is still quite young for her profession and she surely has the capacity to go a long way. Although she needs some work on developing her stage presence, her sense of the dramatic is already making itself delightfully apparent. She even came on stage gaily swinging a long black boa as she sang Musetta's flirtatiously teasing aria.

Last night's performance by Marianna Christos and Margo Garrett was the first of three productions sponsored by the Community Concert Association. "The Music Man" will be performed by the Young Americans in March of next year, and a concert by the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra will follow in April.

Selecting books for the new Reading is Fundamental project sponsored by the American Association of University Women are from left, children, Peter Perry and John Brook; back row, Denise O'Reilly, AAUW; Janet Gilbert and Patricia Adesso, teachers; and Hope Shaughnessy, AAUW. The first distribution will be in November and the first year's program will involve the first and second grades at the Meagher School. The program, a three-year project, is being funded by IBM.

Clearwater's 'Pumpkin Sail' Headed Down The Hudson; Sloop to Be Docked Here Friday

KINGSTON—At least 20 tons of this year's pumpkin crop will sail down the Hudson this month during the annual "Pumpkin Sail" of the sloop Clearwater. The sloop will be docked at the foot of Broadway, all day Friday, Oct. 22, welcoming school groups as well as the general public.

The gala day long event is sponsored by the Ulster County Clearwater Club. In addition to the Clearwater being stocked full of pumpkins, there will be continuous entertainment featuring Nikki Seeger, Sonja Malkine, Benedict Arnold's Elastic Flash Band, Chris Lane and others. Ecology talks will be given to the school groups in attendance. On display will be an old fashioned apple cider press, and cider will be available.

Various booths will be arranged including a sloop booth, featuring buttons, records, sloop books and memberships and the Children's Rehabilitation Center fruit booth.

There will be clowns on the boat, a puppet workshop for children to which the young people are asked to bring buttons, socks, yarn.

This year's annual pumpkin sail began Monday, Oct. 18, at Hudson where local school children formed a pumpkin brigade to load the first ten tons on board the sloop. After loading her cargo at Hudson, the sloop headed for Albany, and will return down river making several stops on its journey to South Street Seaport for the weekend of Oct. 30 and 31.

Further information may be obtained in Kingston from Warren Robinson or Tom Phillips.

Dinner Dance

KERHONKSON—The Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad will hold its annual dinner dance Oct. 24 at the Granit Hotel.

The event, to include a night club show, will benefit the first aid squad, which just started an advanced first aid course Oct. 13, as part of its service.

Director of First Aid Lee Previll is setting up a training session with three squad members to hold three or more simulated first aid problems, to be enacted at the squad's Oct. 25 meeting.

Captain Roy Miller has reported that during the month of September, 46 squad members transported 42 victims, using 281 gallons of gasoline to travel 1,347 miles in 327 man hours. Gasoline for the month was donated by Burgers Gas Station.

Family Concert Series to Start at St. John's

KINGSTON—The first season, 1976-1977, of a new family concert series entitled Sunday afternoons at St. John's, will be launched Oct. 31, at St. John's Episcopal Church in Kingston with a Dedicatorial Choral Evensong at 4 p.m. to be preceded at 3:30 p.m. by an organ recital by Dale Deschler, organist and choirmaster. Evensong is the traditional evening service of the Episcopal Church. On this festival occasion the service will be conducted by the Rev. Mark S. Sisk, rector of St. John's and, by the Rev. Paul E. Parker, rector of Ascension and Holy Trinity Parish, West Park.

A choir of singers especially recruited from other local churches, as well as, from both Episcopal parishes, will sing hymns, anthems, canticles and responses chosen by Dale Deschler, who will be director. Robert Palmatier, organist of St. James Methodist Church, will play for the Evensong.

The October 31st date is also important because the Dedicatorial Evensong and coffee hour which will follow is being held in conjunction with an "open house" for the Ulster County Religious Council.

The Sunday afternoon programs are a joint venture for the St. John's, Ascension and Holy Trinity Parishes. They have been initiated for the benefit of the handbell fund. In keeping with the spirit of a family concert series, all four of the performances will be in the afternoon at 4:30 p.m. Also, children under the age of 12 years accompanied by an adult will be admitted without charge. The afternoon hour will accommodate senior citizens who prefer staying home in the evening.

The Klokken Ringers, The Handbell Choir of the New Hackensack Reformed Church, directed by Betty Garee, will be presented Jan. 23.

A Song Recital About "Time" with Hilda Carr, mezzo soprano; and Dale

Deschler, pianist, is scheduled for March 13.

Medieval and Renaissance Plays with music and dancing by students of Ulster County Community College directed by John Lawson and choreographed by Martelle Lawson will be the final program May 8.

The success of these Sunday afternoons will be celebrated at a Festival Eucharist on Ascension Day, May 19 at the Church of the Ascension, West Park, followed by a covered dish supper.

Patron tickets, individual subscription series, as well as individual tickets for each of the four performances are available. Students and senior citizens will be admitted at reduced rates. # Reds Look to Deal Yankees the Crushing Blow

NEW YORK (UPI) — So confident that they sometimes appear to strut sitting down, the Cincinnati Reds expect to deal the New York Yankees a crushing blow in tonight's third game of the World Series and go on to win their second straight world championship.

Holding a commanding 2-0 lead in games, the world champions shrugged off the supposed advantages some experts think the Yankees will have in Yankee Stadium. The Reds weren't saying so publicly during Monday night's first look at their rivals' park, but it was obvious they expect to wrap up the Series in four or five games.

Manager Sparky Anderson, rookie pitcher Pat Zachry and superstar Joe Morgan appeared as confident as if they were about to play semi-pro team rather than the American League champions.

"We'd like to wrap it up here," said

Anderson, "just to show how good we really are."

"It's still baseball no matter where you play it," said the laconic Zachry, a 6-foot-5, 180-pound right-hander from Richmond, Tex., who won 14 games for the Reds during the National League season and is their starting pitcher in tonight's game. "Judging by the distances, there's not too much difference between our park and this one."

"Major league infielders adjust from artificial surfaces to grass all the time," said Morgan, dismissing the possibility the Reds might have defensive trouble on the grass because they play most of their regular-season games on artificial turf. "It is no problem at all."

Manager Billy Martin, declaring that the Reds "are good but no awesome," named Dock Ellis to pitch for the Yankees. Acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a winter deal, Ellis came through with 17 victories during the season and beat the Kansas City Royals in the third game of the AL playoffs.

"They're not awesome, they're a good club," snorted Martin. "There's a difference. What's awesome? The Yankees of the early 1950s. They won five World Series in a row. When the Reds win five World Series in a row, they'll be awesome."

Martin, of course, was referring to the always-suspect Cincinnati pitching staff as well as the fact the Reds haven't been as successful in World Series competition as their reputations suggest. Cincinnati pitching lacks a leader on a par with such outstanding stars as Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles and Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers — and pitching can be the key factor in a short series.

This is the Reds' fourth World Series appearance in seven years. They lost the 1970 Series to the Orioles in five games and the 1972 Series to the Oakland A's in seven games before beating the Boston Red Sox in seven games in the 1975 Series. They entered this Series with a 1-2 mark in Series won-lost and an 8-11 record in games won-lost.

If the Reds win tonight they'll be a .500 club in games won and lost in Series competition. At the same time, they are seeking to become the first National League team to win two straight World Series since the 1921-22 New York Giants.

Such statistics don't win or lose games, however, and the Reds surely have lived up to their rave notices in sweeping the Philadelphia Phillies in three straight NL playoff games and winning the first two games of the Series against the Yankees.

Their top-to-bottom hitting keeps constant pressure on their rivals. They have good power and outstanding speed. Their speed on the basepaths leads to mistakes by rival pitchers and fielders and then to big innings when Cincinnati power hitters unload. And they are elegant on defense.

The Yankees scored only four runs in the first two games and don't have a slugger in the Ruthian tradition. But they, too, have a run of solid hitters in Mickey Rivers, Thurman Munson, Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles and bring good hitters off the bench in Carlos May, Lou Piniella and others. They could "wear out" Cincinnati pitching in any given game and it would be surprising if some of their power hitters didn't unload at Yankee Stadium.

The weather and crowd control at Yankee Stadium were also prime topics of conversation. The temperature is expected to be in the high 30s and low 40s tonight and the long-range forecast poses an additional threat of rain on Wednesday. Both managers have said repeatedly during the Series that neither team can be expected to be at its best under those conditions.

Disturbances caused by roving youth gangs, as well as demonstrating off-duty policemen, have created serious problems outside the Stadium during and after recent events. Police officials say, however, they will be thoroughly prepared to handle any trouble which erupts on the next three nights. Capacity crowds of 56,000 are a certainty, of course, at each game. Should the Yankees rally in their home park, the Series will shift back to Cincinnati for schedules games six and seven next Saturday and Sunday with Friday a travel day.

The Only One Billy's Fooling Is Himself

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Martin keeps saying his Yankees still are going to beat the Reds in this man's World Series, and in his heart I don't think he really believes it, but if he does, the only one he's fooling is himself.

Anything can happen in baseball. Pure proof of that would be for the Yankees to come roaring back and win the next four out of five. There's as much chance of that happening as there is of the football Giants going to the Super Bowl in January.

Not only do the Reds have it all over the Yankees in power, defense and speed, they also have it all over them when it comes right down to that allimportant matter of pride.

The Reds own that quality in abundance. If the Yankees have it at all, they certainly haven't shown it yet. At least I haven't seen it.

George Steinbrenner, the Yankees' owner, always talks about the word pride. His primary aim, he said, when he bought the club was to restore the old pride of the Yankees. He has done everything he could think of to instill it again, laying down new rules and giving the players periodic pep talks, but that old Yankee pride still isn't there.

"We're gonna win," said Billy Martin in Cincinnati Sunday night after the Reds beat the Yankees, 4-3, to go two games up. "Remember the 1956 Series with the Dodgers? They beat us in the first two games and we came back to win the next four out of five. We can do it again this time."

I doubt it.

The Reds are the team with the pride now. It sticks out all over them with individuals like Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Dave Concepcion.

The 1956 Yankees had that same type pride with fellows like Whitey Ford, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron, Enos Slaughter, Hank Bauer, Gil McDougald, Elston Howard, Don Larsen and Billy Martin. That was the year Larsen pitched his perfect game after the Yankees had squared the Series at two games apiece and they went on to win it all two days later.

In this Series so far, the only two Yankee players who have shown anything near that kind of pride, that consuming passion to win, are Graig Nettles and Thurman Munson. Most of the others seem content simply to have reached the World Series.

Years ago, Hollywood produced a movie called "Pride of the Yankees" centering around the career of the late Lou Gehrig. The picture conveyed the sense of how proud Gehrig felt to be a member of the Yankees. When they held a day for him after he had fallen victim to a tragic disease he said, "I consider myself the luckiest fellow in the world to have played for the Yankees."

It's hard to imagine most of the present Yankee players ever feeling that way or ever saying that.

There is a reason for that. Players like Rose, Bench, Perez and Concepcion were molded in the Cincinnati tradition from the first day they played professional baseball. They all came up through the Reds' system. Morgan started in another one but he has adapted himself completely.

The majority of the Yankees have come to them from other clubs. Elliott Maddox, Chris Chambliss, Ken Holtzman, Ed Figueroa, Mickey Rivers, Fred Stanley, Dock Ellis, Doyle Alexander, Carlos May, Lou Piniella, Oscar Gamble, Fred Stanley and Nettles all came to the Yankees from elsewhere.

Most of what they know about the old Yankee tradition they have read somewhere or heard second-hand. Oh sure, they want to win the same way all ballplayers do, but they lack the pride of the old Yankees who believed they were the best in the world and played ball as if they were.

Men like Billy Martin, Yogi Berra and Elston Howard laugh among themselves whenever they hear the Reds referred to as "a super team." They themselves were integral parts of such a team. That's why when he's asked if he considers the Reds a super team, Billy Martin says, "I don't want to make any comment about that at this time and help them, but if you ask me after the Series is over, I'll be glad to tell you."

The Reds are NOT a super team. They don't have the pitching to make them one.

They have the pride, though, and until they can match it, the Yankees will never beat them.

Senators Rebound To Down Sullivan

STONE RIDGE — The Ulster County Community College soccer team Monday rebounded from its Saturday loss to Farmingdale to hold off Sullivan Community College, 3-1.

Despite the triumph, Ulster coach George Vizvary, who had been quite vocal in his displeasure with his team Saturday, declined to comment on this game. He mentioned only that he made several changes since Saturday, but did not elaborate on the extent of these changes nor specify what they might be.

Nevertheless, the mysterious formula appeared to work as the Senators pounded the Sullivan goal with 41 shots, while Conrad Ernest and Henry Frach only saw six at the other end.

Ulster did all the damage in the first half as Helmut Gerspner, streaking down the middle, put the team on the board at 4:10 on an assist by John Paccione. The Senators then scored two goals in quick succession to take the commanding lead at the half.

John Paccione got credit for the second score on a barrage of shots in front of the net, while Mario Austin was given the assist. Four minutes later, at 33:58, Aurelio Enea put his own rebound behind goalie Paul Hirschreaver, with Austin again assisting.

Sullivan's Gustavo Ciera spoiled the shut out at 4:13 of the second half, with help from teammate Molina Rasel, but Ulster effectively defended its net the rest of the route.

In addition to the 41 shots on goal, Ulster took 11 corner kicks to Sullivan's one to catalog its domination.

The Senators move on to Westchester Community College on Wednesday with hopes of continuing to improve their 8-3-1 season mark.

TV Turns on Grogan

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Steve Grogan starred in his own version of "Run For Your Life," Monday night, putting his body, as did David JanssenDr. Richard Kimble, successfully in jeopardy before a prime time television audience.

The hero of the New England Patriots escaped the adventure unmarked and wreathed himself in glory as he dominated the TV screen and the New York Jets, 41-7, in a National Football League game.

The 23-year-old Grogan scrambled for 103 yards in seven carries, raced 41 yards on a broken play for one touchdown, ran six yards for another score on a fumble recovery and threw for 182 yards and another TD.

Grogan has been magnificent in New England's four wins, but looked less than terrific its two losses. Never did he look better than Monday night when his hometown of Ottawa, Kan., was looking in.

"I was really excited about being on Monday night TV," said the humble and homespun Midwesterner. "I got a telegram last week signed by 500 people from my hometown who said they would be watching. They wished the team good luck and me good luck."

Fortune certainly smiled on Grogan in his running drama against the Jets, now 1-5. Luck has to be on a quarterback's side when he ventures through a line composed of 260-pound defenders.

He baffled the Jets with a pair of quarterback draws, two sweeps around end and that long touchdown run that cut the heart out of the Jets to put New England ahead 27-0 in the third period.

"That was a busted play," said the 6-foot-4 Grogan, who has scored six touchdowns and passed for 10 more this season. "It was supposed to be a reverse to Sam Cunningham but he got fouled up on the snap count."

"I turned around (to hand the ball off) but Sam wasn't there. So I ran where he was supposed to go and got some good blocks."

Guard John Hannah and tackle Leon Gray opened the hole and Grogan sidestepped past four other defenders for the longest Patriot run of the season.

Grogan also was lucky enough to be in the right place in the second period when teammate Don Calhoun fumbled the ball on the New York six yard line. Grogan scooped up the loose ball and sprinted around left end for what proved to be the winning touchdown that gave the Patriots a 14-0 lead at the time.

Grogan helped the Patriots set a club single-game rushing mark of 330 yards. The yardage was the most surrendered by the Jets in their 17-year history.

Andy Johnson caught a 10yard pass from Grogan and also scored on a four-yard run in celebrating his 24th birthday. Cunningham, who gained 83 yards on 16 carries, added a 14-yard touchdown run while Calhoun scampered 15 yards for the other New England score.

The Jets' lone score came after the game was out of reach on a 12-yard pass from Joe Namath to running back Clark Gaines in the third period.

The 33-year-old Namath, bothered by bad knees throughout his professional career, had praise and a warning for his young New England counterpart.

"There's no limit to where he can go in this game," Namath said. "But he can't keep running the way he does. He has to realize that a quarterback is a valuable property."

Grogan, however, threw caution to the wind. Asked if anyone expressed concern over his reckless style of running, he said, "Yes, my mother and my grandma. But my coaches realize that I've been doing it for a long time and as long as I'm smart about it, it's okay with them. I've just got to know when to fall down and not get hurt."

While Grogan escaped unscathed, four other players were not so lucky. New York running back Ed Marinaro was carried off the field in the second quarter after getting tangled up with New England linebacker George Webster. Marinaro suffered a bruised left instep, while Webster incurred a deep back bruise. Both were to be X-rayed today.

Jets running back Louie Giammona sprained his left ankle and injured his left knee, while Patriots safety Bob Howard bruised his left shoulder.

Ed Marinaro (49) is thrown for a loss

Fallsburgh Booters Rip OCS, 5-1

FALLSBURGH — Fallsburgh's James Gray scored two goals in Monday's rescheduled Ulster County Athletic League soccer contest, to lead his team to a 5-1 explosion against the Onteora Indians in what coach Joe Hanofee called a must win for the Fallsburgh team.

"It was a game we really wanted to win," said Hanofee, "it brought us back to the .500 mark and put us in good position in the standings with four games left."

In other soccer action, Hudson High School squeezed by Rondout Valley 1-0 in a non-league contest, in a game in which it was outshot 20-5.

Fallsburgh's David Abis spurred the deluge with his goal at 6:47 of the first half, and James Gray got the first of his two at 16:59 for a 2-0 half time lead.

"We didn't let up, said coach Hanofee, "we played consistent and hard. We usually score first and then seem to let up but we didn't today."

After Onteora's Roger Cilley had put his team on the board at 2:28 of the second half, Fallsburgh countered with three unanswered goals by Tony Diers, James Gray and Jerome Bullock to settle the matter.

Hudson Valley struck early in its game, taking advantage of a Rondout mistake. The ball was bobbled in front of the net and Roland Romonowski booted it home for the only score.

"We played well," said Rondout coach Andy Lutz, "we just couldn't put the ball in."

Kingston, Sawyers Win

KINGSTON — The Kingston High School soccer team continued its upward surge Monday on Malcom Schick's fifth shutout of the year by smothering Poughkeepsie 2-0 in a Dutchess County Scholastic League contest.

Kingston coach Ron Chiasson was pleased with his team's performance. "We've been playing good soccer," he said, "keeping the ball on the ground and moving it well."

In other DCSL action, Saugerties blanked John Jay by a similar score of 2-0.

Emile Jordan gave Kingston its margin of victory at 30:20 of the first half as George Wenzel hit him with a pass at midfield and Emile shot from left wing, ripping the cords behind goalie Hadley Bressman. "It was very cold out there," said Chiasson, "and the ball just slipped through Bressman's fingers."

At 8:06 of the second half, Dave Jordan padded the Kingston lead with help from Craig Turner who passed it in from the sidelines right in front of the net.

"Dave Jordan on right wing is playing fine soccer," said Chiasson. He set up several plays for Eric tenBroecke which just didn't connect. We missed a lot of good scoring opportunities."

Although the team did a lot of shooting, coach Lutz felt that the boys didn't hit their shots in the right spots. "We didn't pass as much in front of the goal as we should have," he said, "and when we did pass, we were late."

By virtue of the loss, Rondout now posts a 4-2-1 mark for the season.

Chiasson noted the absence of Bill Grennon, who suffered a severe charlie horse in a game previous to this. "Our defense is a little short without him," he said, "and we hope to have him back for our next game."

Saugerties coach Tony Elia was not as satisfied with his team's win over John Jay. "Overall we didn't play as well as we could have," he said, "it was a scrappy game."

Scoring ace Bob Benzenhoefer led the team to its success, scoring one goal in the first half and one in the second. Benzenhoefer was again double teamed, but managed to take the ball away from the John Jay defense for his first score with the assist going to Ron Cyr. At 9:00 of the second half, he took a pass from Carr and went in on a breakaway, beating goalie Don Porter.

Despite the unimpressive win, Elia noted that this year's team is the most successful of the teams in the last five years. None of those teams have ever had seasons of 500 or better. Saugerties, now with a 7-4-2 mark and four games left, has a good chance to improve on that as it faces Poughkeepsie in its next game on Wednesday. Kingston, at 9-4-1, will be in action against Ketcham in an away game.

Javamine Scores at Belmont

NEW YORK (UPI) — Javamine, building a reputation as a strong turf runner, led a sweep of Mack Miller-trained fillies across the finish line Monday in the $55,450 Long Island Handicap at Belmont Park.

Miller had four of his charges in the mile and one-sixteenth race and came away smiling as Nijana finished second and Fun Forever third. Javamine and Nijana both belong to the Cragwood Stable while Fun Forever is owned by William K. Floyd.

Student Leader, the fourth Miller entry owned by Kenneth Franzheim, wound up sixth in the field of 11. A fifth 3-year-old filly handled by Miller, Puss In Cahoots, was entered for the race but then scratched.

Javamine, winning for the fourth time in six career outings on the turf, trailed in ninth place halfway through the race before rallying under jockey Jorge Velasquez to win by a length and one-quarter.

Tech Blanks Hawks, 2-0

NEW YORK — The New Paltz State soccer team wishes its bus would have gotten lost on the way to New York Tech Monday instead of on the way home.

The Hawks, who made the journey fully expecting to pick up their third win of the year, suffered through that extra long return trip thinking about a 2-0 defeat and a game in which nothing went right.

"I'm disappointed," said coach Roland Hess. "We'd hoped to win this game. The team played well and had lots of opportunities but we couldn't finish anything off. We were half a step away from a score on most plays."

Tech, on the other hand, experienced a couple of opportune moments. The first came when the game was 38:38 old, and an NYT boot from an impossible angle sliced its way into the Hawk net. The second one came 35 minutes into the second half, and this time it was a corner kick that curved untouched for Tech's final score.

"We either hit the post or shot over the net or had the ball deflected close in," said a frustrated Hess. Still, the Hawk coach called it "a good, even game."

New Paltz, now 2-5-1, takes on Wagner Wednesday.

The summaries:

New Paltz 0 0-0
New York Tech 1 1-2
1st half: Oches, 38:38
2nd half: Riccardi, 35:00

Pine Bush Wins In Field Hockey

PINE BUSH — Pine Bush remained undefeated by blanking Coleman 2-0 in a rescheduled Ulster County Athletic League field hockey contest on Monday.

"It was extremely cold," said Pine Bush coach Ida Gage, "and it was kind of a sloppy game, but we played as a team."

Cheryl Gage scored both goals for Pine Bush, one at 15:00 of the first half, and the other, 5:00 into the second half.

"We expected a hard game from Coleman and it was a good contest," said coach

Gage, and she cited Helga Rogge and Joanne Ussery for their outstanding performances.

Pine Bush remains second in the UCAAL standings with a 5-1 record behind Red Hook who has compiled an impressive six wins against no losses. The two teams will square-off on Tuesday in an all-important battle, while Coleman will try to improve its 3-3 record against Ellenville.

The summaries:

Coleman 0 0-0
Pine Bush 2 1-1
1st half: Gage, 15:00, Gage, 5:00
SOG: Cole-7, PB-1; CK: Cole-1, PB-4

NPS Tops UCCC

NEW PALTZ — The county's collegiate volleyball teams went at it Monday, and the result was a convincing triumph for New Paltz State over Ulster County Community College.

The Hawk spikers rolled to a 3-1 victory, winning by scores of 15-7, 15-0 and 15-1 and losing only the third game to UCCC, 15-13. New Paltz produced a consistent defensive effort to thwart the Senators who continually failed to get service receptions into the attack.

Kathleen Vogt was the individual standout for Ulster which dropped to 1-4 on the year. The Senators will continue their schedule next in a triangular competition with Siena and Fulton-Montgomery.

KHS, Saugerties Take DCSL Volleyball Contests

KINGSTON — The Kingston High School volleyball team collected its sixth season win Monday by defeating Spackenkill 2-0, by scores of 15-6, 15-2 in a Dutchess County Scholastic League contest.

Kingston coach Pat Burke was satisfied with the victory and feels his team is improving with each game. "We played as a team," she said, "and the defense is coming along."

The team started slowly and was down 6-0 in the first game before it was able to get it together and move on to the decisive finish. Lori Eaton was praised by coach Burke for her good control on the service and Lynette Byrd was noted for her "beautiful spikes."

In the Junior varsity contest, Spackenkill was able to win the tie breaker and take the match 2-1 by scores of 15-4, 8-15, and 15-5.

In the another DCSL volleyball contest, Saugerties defeated Lourdes 15-9 and 15-10 for a 2-0 match win. Saugerties coach Andrea Ungvasky did not feel her team played up to its capabilities. "It was sort of a let down," she said, "possibly because we haven't practiced over the weekend."

Coach Ungvasky cited Peggy Hain for her defensive play and Paula Discordia on offense who served nine straight points in the second game.

The Saugerties J.V. was also victorious, blanking its opponent 15-6, 15-5 for a 7-1 season mark. Kingston will take its 6-1 record into its next game with Roosevelt on Wednesday, while Saugerties, now at 6-2, will meet Ketcham at home.

Nets Cut Bucci

UNIONDALE (UPI) — The New York Nets got down to the National Basketball Association roster limit of 12 Monday by releasing four players.

Jerry Baskerville, a swing man formerly with the Philadelphia 76ers, and George Bucci, a guard on the Nets' ABA championship team of last season, were among those released. Bucci is the former Newburgh Free Academy star.

Also cut were center Major Jones, a rookie from Albany State (Ga.) and the brother of pros Caldwell and Wilbert Jones, and Pete Davis, a guard from Michigan State.

The 12-man roster includes Julius Erving, who is seeking to renegotiate his contract and has not reported to the Nets. Three new players on the squad are ABA veterans Jan van Breda-Kolff and Mel Daniels, and NBA veteran Earl Williams.

SIDELINES

NEW YORK — I don't know how you feel about it, but the World Series hasn't exactly turned me on so far. OK, maybe if the Yankees had won a couple in Cincinnati I'd be caught up in the middle of the thing. But they didn't and, as expected, the Reds appear to be on their way to a repeat championship. Let's face it, winning four of the next five from a team with the Reds' kind of firepower isn't all that likely.

But I wonder if you, as I, don't believe that regardless of the outcome of the next few games it's just plain difficult to get excited about baseball this late in October. Sure, I'll occupy my seat in the press section at Yankee Stadium the next three nights; I'll rub shoulders with the players and baseball brass and talk baseball until I'm blue in the face. That's as much a part of the World Series for newspaper guys as is watching the games.

The difference this year is that if I hold my tongue I'll probably get blue in the face anyway. I mean I'd think twice about sitting outdoors to watch a football game this time of year. Baseball? Forget it.

Did you see that game in Cincinnati Sunday night? I got cold just watching them introduce the players, each one trotting out and blowing on their hands to keep the fingers from getting numb. And did you see Graig Nettles set baseball history by calling the bathhouse out to give him a hot water bottle? Unbelievable.

If the rest of the series holds true to form, one would be tempted to continue the comparison between the Yankees and the 1951 Giants. Both, of course, won their respective pennants on dramatic ninth inning home runs in the final game of a playoff series, the Yankees getting the power from Chris Chambliss, the Giants from Bobby Thomson. The Giants then moved on to the World Series (against the Yankees, of course) and lost in six games. Then, as now, one would think, the series proved to be merely anticlimactic following the playoff euphoria.

The comparison ends, however, when you recall that the Giants won the first game of the 1951 series and led 2-1 after three before the Yankees mustered together their forces to sweep the next three.

It must be pointed out too that the Yankees of '51 didn't clinch their pennant until September 28 and it took an Allie Reynolds' no-hitter in the first game of a twinbill with Boston to help them do it. Thus the Giants weren't the only team happy just to get to the World Series, much less hope to win it.

The current Yankees wrapped up their flag at 11:43 p.m. on a Thursday. At 2 p.m. the next day they were on a plane to Cincinnati. The hours in between were taken up by one big party. Could the Yankees really have been ready for Saturday's first game?

No matter, the Reds are unquestionably the best team in baseball and even a miracle Yankee comeback this week will do little to dispel that notion. The Yankee fans of the world can bathe in the glory of their first pennant in 12 years... as, I suspect, the Yankee players are doing.

Well, it's time to go up the stadium. Where did I put those long Johns?

EXTRA BASES — The absence of Ken Holtzman from the playoffs and series continues to dominate conversation here and in Cincinnati... The way Fred Stanley had been playing the second half of the season and into the playoffs and Game One of the series made you figure he'd solidified his position with the club for next year. But his throwing error Sunday night couldn't have sat well with the impulsive Mr. Steinbrenner, not after the Yankees had pulled themselves back into the game to tie the Reds... Yankees have converted their indoor batting range into a large VIP hospitality room. Called the Syracuse Room, it's located beneath the stands in right field... Cincinnati players have expressed some fear about bringing their families to New York in the wake of last Thursday's post-game "celebration" here. Reds remember all too well the problems they had at Shea Stadium during 1973 playoffs...

Lafleur, Shutt Tied

NEW YORK (UPI) — Montreal's Guy Lafleur, last year's National Hockey League scoring leader, picked up eight points in four games last week to move into a first place tie with linemate Steve Shutt in this year's Art Ross Trophy race.

After two weeks Lafleur and Shutt each have 13 points. Shutt, a 45-goal scorer last year who did not record his seventh goal until his 20th game, has a team-leading seven goals while Lafleur tops the Canadiens with seven assists. Lafleur's eight-point performance last week was equaled by Marcel Dionne of the Los Angeles Kings.

Call Them 'The Bad Company'

Dear Sports Editor:

This letter is in regard to the articles written in the Freeman on the Kingston High School varsity football team.

In the articles published after the first four games, Mr. Kane did not mention the offensive line by the name we wish and like to be called: The Bad Company.

Don't get us wrong, we think that Mr. Kane is a fine sportswriter and that he does an excellent job covering our games. After last Saturday's game, Mr. Goldberg mentioned The Bad Company in his article. We were very glad to see this as that name brings us together to play as a cohesive unit and we also take great pride in the name as well. The name symbolizes strength, meanness and toughness which we all possess.

So The Bad Company — our leader and coach "Daddy Bad Company" Mills, Jeff "The Doctor" Kaplan, John "Teddy Bear" O'Meara, Dan "Fat Jack" Curlin, Ricky "Little Joe" Smith and Phil "Big Boss" Razy — would greatly appreciate it if you continue to use the name Bad Company in any references you make to the offensive line. Thank you.

Billy C. Retires

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Billy Cunningham, star forward for the Philadelphia 76ers for nine of his 11 years as a pro basketball player, knew it was time to quit.

What he didn't know was how to get to a news conference to talk about it.

Cunningham, a star in the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association, said Monday he decided to retire because the right knee he injured last year that was operated on "just won't hold up."

The 33-year-old native of Brooklyn, N.Y., was late arriving at a news conference the 76ers held at Widener College in nearby Chester, Pa., to announce the retirement.

"This is not a morbid time in my life," Cunningham said, with the same smoothness he used on the court. "It is almost a happy time. Not many men are fortunate enough to do something, make a living at something they would do for nothing."

Cunningham, a former North Carolina star, was the 76ers top draft choice in 1969.

He played seven years with the 76ers and was an all-star for four of those years before he jumped to the Carolina Cougars in 1973-74. Then he became the ABA's most valuable player that season.

After two years with the Cougars, he returned to Philadelphia for the last two seasons.

Cunningham called the injury he suffered Dec. 5 in which he tore a cartilage and ligaments that could not be repaired, "an occupational hazard."

"God gave me talent and I was able to use it for 11 years," he said. "I hope I gave something back to basketball because basketball gave so much to me."

Roundup: Ali, Perez Even

Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, who is accustomed to coming out first in fights, Monday came out even with referee Anthony Perez following a battle of libel charges in U.S. District Court.

Perez sued Ali for $20 million after the boxer, following his April, 1975, win in Cleveland over Chuck Wepner, charged Perez was "in the pay of gangsters...a racist and dirty referee."

Ali counterclaimed for over $1 million on the basis of a press conference in which Perez called Ali a "dirty fighter."

A jury of four women and two men debated the merits for 90 minutes before clearing both contestants on the fifth day of the trial...

The NFL Players Association chalked up another legal victory over the owners today and also enjoyed some quiet unofficial backing from three major segments of organized labor, including the United Mine Workers Union. Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, withheld immediate official comment on a unanimous ruling by a three-judge Federal Appeals Court in St. Louis upholding a U.S. District Judge's decision striking down the controversial Rozelle Rule.

But officials of the players union were unquestionably pleased with the rejection of the appeal from the finding of U.S. District Judge Earl R. Larson that the rule allowing Commissioner Pete Rozelle to set compensation for free agents switching teams was an antitrust violation...

Police said today they made about 30 arrests, mostly for disorderly conduct, at and following the New England Patriots game Monday night against the New York Jets in Foxboro, Mass...

Scottsboro 'Boy' Won't Go Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I may have to go back but it won't be of my own free will," said Clarence Norris, believed to be the last living defendant in the Scottsboro rape case of 45 years ago.

"I won't go back to serve time," he said.

Norris, now a 64-year-old warehouseman for New York City, was one of the nine "Scottsboro boys" convicted in 1931 of raping two white women aboard a freight train in Alabama.

Charges against four of the defendants were later dropped but the other five were sentenced either to death or to long jail terms. Norris served 15 years, five of them on death row. His trial has been criticized as a "legal tragedy."

"I just want to be free," Norris told a news conference at NAACP headquarters Monday. "I want to be free where I can go to any part of the country."

He is seeking a full pardon and is backed by the Alabama attorney general but state parole officials insist he must first answer charges of violating parole by leaving the Alabama in 1946.

The stocky Norris, who operates a vacuum cleaner at a city warehouse, said he fled Alabama to escape the abuse of an employer to whom he was assigned as a condition of his parole.

After jumping parole, Norris lived with his mother and sisters in Ohio for seven years before coming to New York 23 years ago. He now lives in Brooklyn with his wife and two daughters.

NAACP General Counsel Nathaniel Jones said Alabama Attorney General William Baxley supports the pardon and wrote a letter to the state parole board expressing his belief in Norris' innocence.

According to Jones, Baxley also said he saw no legal reason why Norris should have to return to Alabama to face the parole violation charge before the parole board considers his pardon.

But, board chairman Norman F. Ussery insists that he will not consider a pardon while Norris remains "a fugitive."

"It's good that people know of the Scottsboro boys," Norris said when it was mentioned that the case had become a part of American history.

Strategist Sees Carter Win But...

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Political strategist John Sears, who ran Ronald Reagan's bid for the Republican presidential nomination, says he thinks Jimmy Carter will win the election but will be an unpopular chief executive.

In a radio interview Monday, Sears, who was Reagan's campaign manager, said, "Ford will probably lose. If you're running as a Republican, you have to have an edge before you start out. If neither candidate is especially attractive, the Democrats have the capacity to beat you just from the numbers."

Sears said, "I've always felt that Ford doesn't have that edge."

Concerning Carter, Sears said, "I think he'll prove to be an unpopular president if he wins. He still has some difficult problems with some parts of the electorate, and their attitude towards him and in terms of whether they think he's a fair minded person."

He said he felt the Republican ticket would have been stronger with someone other than Robert Dole as the vice presidential candidate.

Someone from the Northeast would have been a wiser choice, Sears said.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You are in the process of reaching for something creative that is so distinctly personal. Avoid pampering yourself or spending too much money.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Intuition reveals what is needed, strive to supply it even at a sacrifice. During a trial run of household changes, try to avert clashes.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Friends' maneuvers pose difficult choices. Pick the simplest course. Express gratitude for favors received—it costs nothing.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Money comes and goes easily if you indulge in "get-rich-quick" schemes. Stop when you hit the limits of your mad-money budget allowance.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):

Romantic affairs become entangled and misunderstood by all. Don't put your two cents in until you know it will help matters.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Just because you're restless doesn't justify spending beyond normal. Realize you're not the target for what people say. Stand firm on what you believe without bragging or overstatement.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Today is a good time to make preparations for a new way of living. Add to savings. Fatigue is a problem; pace your efforts.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You ask for more than you can handle. Seize a chance to change your request. Your personal habits are questioned by competitors.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you properly investigate speculative matters, this is a good time to test a complex mix of destiny, circumstance and sensitivity to patterns of reality.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Extra correspondence, errands and explanations are urgent as your mate, rivals or steady associates are impulsive and complicate all your activities. Don't give up!

Places (Feb. 19-March 20): Your place in today's scheme is confused or invisible. Try to unscramble conflicts and mistakes of those around you. Success is indicated.

MILES: (Q.) I have not had very many girl friends. For some reason, I just don't seem to get them. But a few nights ago I met this wonderful girl. I don't know what it was. We just hit it off, like love at first sight.

We have this problem, though. She lives 20 miles away and her phone is long distance. I don't want to never see her again because it's the best thing that has ever happened to me. Please help me.

— Excited in Oklahoma.

(A.) What has happened to you doesn't happen to everyone, and you are wise to want to hold onto it.

Make an agreement with your parents to call the girl only once a week and to hold down the time to whatever they say.

And 20 miles isn't too far for one date a week. One phone call and one date a week is enough for a friendship as vital as you seem to have.

TWO: (Q.) I like this guy Greg. He was going steady with Laura and then he started seeing me. After he started seeing me, he broke up with Laura. Well, not exactly broke up. He quit going steady with her.

Now he's seeing both of us. I don't think that's right.

want him to see either Laura or me. Tell me what do I do? I have to know right away. — Sharing in Florida.

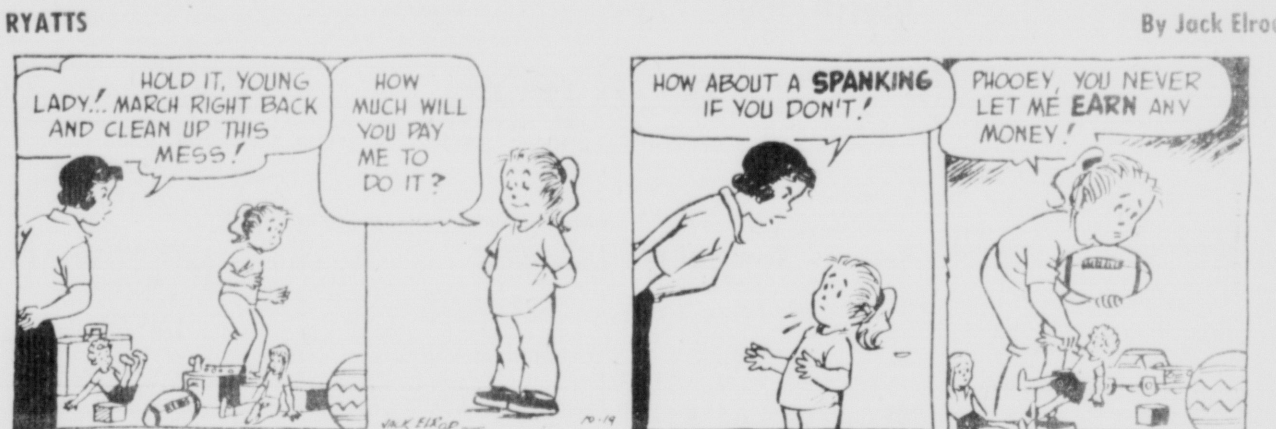

(A.) What Greg is doing is something many boys and girls do — going out with more than one person at a time. I think this is a good idea. It keeps teenagers from getting themselves into a rut and becoming tight down, narrow, selfish, possessive and fearful. It also keeps some teens from getting into deep sexual troubles.

It would be better still if you had another boy seeing you and Laura had another boy seeing her.

If you insist that Greg be your steady and go with no one else, he may say no. He has tried going steady and is now trying something better. Consider carefully whether sharing him isn't better than not seeing him at all.

If the trumps are 2-2, South can lose only one trump and two clubs. If East started with three trumps, South still loses only one trump trick. If West started with three trumps, South must lose two trump tricks no matter how he plays the suit.

Eye Specialist Says Masked Children Can't See Well

Makeup, Not Masks, Advised For Halloweeners

CONCORD, N.H.(UPI) — Dr. Brian Klinger thinks Halloween masks are frightening for what they hide, not for what they show.

Klinger, president of the New Hampshire Optometric Association, thinks most masks obstruct a child's view and pose a serious threat to the wearers. And he recommended replacing traditional masks with makeup.

"I'm not trying to take the fun out of it by any matter of means. The problem with the masks is the visibility, especially with smaller children.

"They just don't have a good mask to fit them. By and large, a makeup situation is safer and a lot more fun," said the father of two Halloween-aged children.

Klinger also warned parents who use makeup to beware of any cosmetic to which their children might be allergic.

"The best thing to do is to have your mother find a little patch of skin and dab on the makeup. Children's skin can be very sensitive.

"If they react, there are plenty of cosmetics designed not to be irritating to the skin. In short, mother should take the same precautions on her kids as she does on herself," he said.

Klinger also recommended the use of reflective tape to make the trick or treaters more easily seen by motorists. He also says parents should accompany the young trick or treaters.

Killer Evokes God, Shuns Clergy

NASSAU, Bahamas(UPI) — Michiaiah Shobek, a Milwaukee drifter who said he killed three American tourists on orders from God, spurned last-minute comfort from a prison chaplain and spent his final hours today in a cell only a few feet from the gallows.

Shobek, 22, the first American sentenced to die in the Bahamas in 15 years, remained in isolation before dawn, rejecting the companionship of Rev. Reubin Cooper.

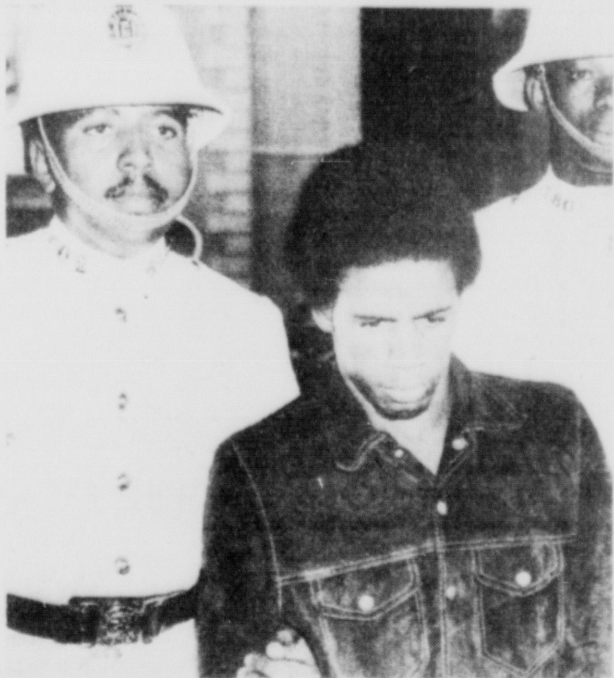

"I don't want you around me and I don't want you praying for me," Shobek told Cooper, according to prison officials.

Shobek was moved to the cell adjacent to the execution chamber Sunday. Prison officials said he was calm.

Officials prepared him a final meal of orange juice, grits, sausage, bread and butter and coffee.

The press was barred from attending the execution. A coroner's jury was charged with certifying Shobek's death and an official notice of the hanging was to appear on the prison's main gate.

No claim had been received by Monday night for Shobek's body, which was to be placed in a plain pine coffin for burial in a pauper's grave.

American Michiaiah Shobek, 22, who has been convicted of killing three U.S. tourists, saying they were 'angels of Lucifer', is to be hanged in Nassau today. Shobek, a native of Michigan, said he had been ordered by God to kill the tourists.

Shobek, who changed his name from James Michael Shoffner, was convicted in May 1974 of the fatal stabbing of Irwin Bornstein, 44, a New York accountant.

Shobek also confessed to killing Paul Howell, 50, of Massillon, Ohio, and Katie Smith, 17, of Detroit, Mich., the previous month.

"God, my father, told me who to destroy in Nassau," he testified at his trial. He said the three tourists were "angels of Lucifer."

Shobek escaped execution by hours one year ago when his attorneys and the U.S. Embassy persuaded the government to grant more time for appeals.

Bahamian authorities gave the go-ahead for the execution despite a last-minute appeal, relayed by the White House, from Shobek's mother, Juanita Spencer, a 51-year-old Milwaukee school janitor.

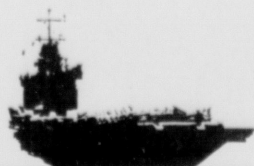

U.S. Ambassador Seymour Weiss, who relayed the appeal to the government, said "their response was negative."

Shobek's death sentence was criticized by a group identified as the "Bain Town Freedom and Justice Committee," an organization opposed to capital punishment.

In May 1961, two Americans were executed in the Bahamas for hijacking a yacht and murdering the skipper.
